Clifford House was elected Commander of Steuben County American Legion in a spirited contest held at the annual convention Thursday night. This is the first time Addison has entertained a county convention in the history of the Legion. Elmer C. Bovee of Addison is the retiring Commander. The new commander is from Hornell.

Commander Bovee opened the annual session and presented Miss Della M. Ennis of Hornell, who in turn introduced a song "Our Good Old U. S. A." which was sung by the Legionnaires. Sponsorship of the song was left with the incoming officers.

Donnellan Speaks At Cameron Mills Old Home Day

Plans are rapidly rounding into shape for the ninth annual Old Home Day celebration to be held Saturday, August 3 in Cameron Mills according to general chairman William Crawford.

There will be two baseball games during the day with the first game getting under way at 10 o'clock in the morning and the second game at three o'clock in the afternoon. In the interim there will be a dinner to be served by the women of the village in the Masonic Hall.

An informal program of speaking will also be presented with P. M. Donnellan, superintendent of the Erie Railroad and a former Cameron Mills resident as the principal speaker. Other returning sons and daughters will be called upon to speak.

One of the highlights of this gathering is the awarding of prizes for it is always of interest to know which family has the most representatives present, who came the longest distance to attend the celebration, who is the youngest present and who is the oldest person present.

Young people of the community will stage a program of music, songs and dances during the afternoon and before the awarding of the prizes.

Jim Heffernan Dies, Was Ball Player And Attorney

James Walter Heffernan, 60, attorney, former baseball star and well known Elmira, died suddenly Sunday night while visiting in Housatonic, Mass., where he had been attending funeral services for his mother.

"Jim" Heffernan is best remembered in this vicinity as a baseball pitcher, for it will be remembered he pitched for Addison in the old baseball league which caused such rivalry between Addison and Corning. He was graduated from Williams College and Syracuse University and coached baseball in the latter institution. He was considered an outstanding pitcher in collegiate circles and also in the professional league. Corning, Wellsville, Hornell and Elmira were in that league and players were paid as high as $300 per month to play for the various towns in the league. Heffernan was outstanding on a team which included such names as Lenny Burrell, Bill Heinle, Vic Borden and a host of others.

After leaving here he went to Utica where he played in the state league team with Bill Dugleby and others who became major leaguers. He preferred the study of law and worked with District Attorney Wilmot Knapp. He then became associated with attorney John Hassett in Elmira and has been a partner there for many years. In recent years most of his time has been devoted to surrogate court work.

Health Rules Are Being Broken in Addison

Local officials are calling attention to infraction of health and sanitary rules in Addison through dumping of garbage and refuse. Some persons whose names are being withheld for the present have been using the river bank along lower Wombough St. as a dump, even going so far as to throw dead chickens there.

Health officials say this must stop immediately or drastic action will be taken against the guilty persons. It endangers public health to throw dead animals and garbage within the limits of the village and is absolutely forbidden by local ordinance. Addison citizens need not tolerate conditions brought about by such unsanitary action and local officials will not hesitate to enforce the law.

420 Area Residents File Claims in Old Age Program

Fresh air children will return to New York City from Addison and vicinity Saturday. They will leave on Train 2 of the Erie, leaving Addison at 12:48 daylight time.

The children apparently have had a good time while here. And while enjoying themselves, have thought of their homes and now are anxious to get back to fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers and tell of the wonderful things seen in the country.

Some of the children have expressed a desire to remain in the vicinity another week, and this being agreeable to parents, the Tribune Fresh Air Fund and the local people, the children are permitted to stay.

Three young people promised for this community did not arrive owing to the failure of the sponsoring organization in New York. The Tribune arrangements were complete but the welfare organization in charge of the children did not complete arrangements, so the three young people will not arrive as scheduled.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

With Hitler having concluded his "peace" hints and the British giving a firm "no", developments in the European War have become settled in greater activity of the air forces of both powers. Nazi bombers continue to harass the English coast towns and inland industrial centers while the British are retaliating with regular day and night attacks upon the industrial plants of Germany. Censorship prevents the world knowing exactly how great is the damage done by the air attacks upon Britain and the retaliatory forays against Germany, but it is certain losses are terrific.

The British government has released a statement that approximately 350 men, women and children have been killed by Nazi air raids on the Island during the first month of heavy bombing. Many more persons have been injured, nearly all of the casualties being civilians.

British defenders expect the long forecast invasion of Britain to start any day now. Hitler having received his answer to the request England surrender Berlin has indicated "zero hour" is now near. The Nazis claim to have an army of 600,000 men ready to start from undisclosed ports for the invasion of the island which has not been successfully attacked in over 900 years. Observers believe if Hitler tries a direct assault he will launch it from Holland, Belgium, France as well as Norway with the main force of attackers starting from Calais, France at the narrow part of the channel called the Strait of Dover. British defense zones have been laid 20 miles deep along the coast.

Representative Hennings (D-Mo.) introduced an amendment to the Neutrality Act Monday to permit bringing refugee children from the British Isles in American ships. Ships would be well marked and brilliantly lighted at night to warn subs.

Japan indicated this week the newly strengthened totalitarian government would seek closer ties with Axis powers and unhitch from British and American economic spheres. The Jap foreign minister promised that Japan in the future would act without warning to achieve diplomatic ends by surprise.

Aftermath of the Democratic convention which not only nominated Mr. Roosevelt for another term but acceded to his desire for Wallace as a running mate, is a growing list of Democrats announcing their non-support of the ticket. Many big name Democrats appear less incensed at the third term bid than they are disappointed at the way New Deal handlers of the convention cold-shouldered Jim Farley.

Jim Farley for eight years Democratic National Chairman has announced that he will relinquish the post next month. Many party leaders have urged Big Jim to stick with the ship, all to no avail.

Passengers in the car also were her two daughters, Marion and Barbara. All were taken to St. James Mercy Hospital in Hornell. James was driving the car towards Canisteo when the car collided with one driven by William J. Bowie of North Bergen, N. J. James is seriously injured with internal injuries and the girls are suffering from shock and minor bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Bowie are also being treated for shock and bruises.

Rain Destroys Many Crops—Heat Wave Due

The transition from spring to summer came suddenly last week and for the first time this vicinity really had hot weather. The heat was accompanied by a mugginess which left everyone drowsy and robbed them of ambition according to comment along Main street.

Tuesday the vicinity was struck by a second torrential rain which flooded sewers and gutters, washed out roads under construction and raised the river level a great deal.

It also caused a cessation of haying activities in the vicinity, the first of the year.

The rain did not cool the atmosphere much for late Tuesday night it was hot and muggy and continued through Wednesday with a slight rain Wednesday morning.

The grounds are now sufficiently saturated to satisfy most of the farm producers in the vicinity. They now seek two weeks of clear, sunny weather to give the crops a break. Many fields have been flooded and crops damaged by the heavy rains.

Miss M. Lewis, national field representative for the American Red Cross, Washington, spoke to a group of men and women of Addison Wednesday night on "Needs and program of the Red Cross". She outlined some of the experiences and mistakes of the Red Cross in the past war and how these conditions are being remedied.

Miss Lewis was introduced by Elmer C. Bovee, chairman of the Addison Branch.

Mrs. George Macbeth, chairman of the Corning Chapter, was also present to meet with representatives of the Addison Branch. As a result of the meeting, women of Addison will be asked to sew and knit for the refugees of Europe. A planned program based on the needs of the countries at war or devastated is being worked out.

Chairman Bovee states much is being done by the Episcopal Girls' Friendly Society, American Legion Auxiliary and Borden Home Bureau unit but that much more can be done to make surgical dressings, hospital gowns, layettes, sweaters with long sleeves, dresses with long sleeves and other materials. A central place will be established where supplies may be secured and completed projects left.

This is no longer a leisure time activity, for there is real need for these things.

Main Street Bridge Job May Begin Soon

Surveyors under the direction of D. A. McClelland representing the New York State Department of Highways, are surveying in preparation for construction of the temporary bridge over the Canisteo River and for the new bridge approaches.

Mr. McClelland is assistant engineer in the Hornell office of the Department. He is being assisted by Messrs. P. Craugh, R. Tolan and R. Sibley. They have been in Addison during this week and expect to be here about 10 days.

Mr. McClelland states that he does not know when construction will begin, for his work is in laying out lines for the contractor to follow. The temporary bridge will be constructed from Wall street east of Hawkins-Hill building.

It is expected that the contractor will construct a road from Front street approaching the bridge and that the bridge will be of timber construction to handle the heaviest traffic using Route 17, the Liberty Highway. The bridge approach will cross the Erie tracks, Water street and the river.

Nothing definite is known as to when construction will begin as the contractor is now employed on another project, which must be completed before materials, equipment and men come to Addison.

Convention Reveries

The following thought, and words, expressed in this column three weeks ago can now be repeated, with emphasis:

"Of the many things radio is guilty, or responsible for, it is outstanding for frankness in purpose in party conventions. . . . Mob psychology is afforded greater scope than was ever possible in the old days. . . . True, too, much of the dignity that goes with such an event is lost in the boisterous, and sometimes rowdy, deportment of candidates."

It took the Democratic convention at Chicago to clarify the thought. In the eleventh hour of a most confusing gathering, President Roosevelt let it be known in a rather boisterous manner that he was not allergic to "the draft". He might have established himself as a fair sort of sportsman had he been outspoken two or three weeks ago.

In the face of disagreeing counsel in his own party ranks, the President had indicated that I would like the idea of "being drafted". May it be showmanship. Such campaigners as Farley Glass and many lesser lights, were handed the double-cross, which is strictly party business, but may be the Roosevelt undoing.

What we started out to say here is essential covered in the first paragraph. We can't see where radio has helped the rank and file to make any important decision regarding their November intentions. And if anything, the rowdy, throaty doings and mouthings have made man a good citizen wonder what it takes to make Presidential timber.

The New York Daily News—of which there is nothing more pro-Roosevelt, goes on record with this—

"Of course, something may happen between now and November which will make Willkie look like a more able man for President than Roosevelt. Our notion is that the smart thing for voters to do is to keep their minds open until Election Day, and then, if the war is still going on, vote for whichever of the two candidates has shown himself the more likely to keep us out of it."

There's a lot of words, coming from its particular source.

In the three months to come, many will argue that it is silly to "change horses in mid-stream"—speaking of the campaign now stretching out before us.

First, let's ask what is "mid-stream"? What is "mid-stream"? Are we letting ourselves in for a lot of bunk about the European war, or are we to be concerned over our own problems?

In 1916 the voters of the United States re-elected Wilson because "he kept us out of war". Just a lot of campaign loud talk. We got it the tussle right up to our eyes.

In 1940 there is NO war, but it is evident that President Roosevelt would, personally, tempt us to "try our spurs". If we ever had a President who brought us to the brink of war, we now possess one.

It is better to "change horses" than to sit astride one that has no sense of direction and refuses to recognize anything so important as a gun powder.

PATIENCE EXHAUSTED

Commenting on the fact that socialistic experiments and political interference with the normal growth and expansion of industry in our own country have proven a snare and a delusion, the Bucyrus, Ohio, Telegraph-Forum says editorially: "In true American spirit American industry is beginning to fight back at the forces which have been making unreasonable and unconstitutional demands in a fashion bordering too closely to totalitarian policies."

"Industry is to be congratulated for its exhibition of patience and patriotic loyalty over a period during which it reluctantly remained on the receiving end of governmental interference and took and obeyed orders from political bosses who knew nothing about industry's aims or its problems."

"It is industry's right to protect its own interests and when industry protects its interests, it protects, too, the interests of practically all American working men and large and small communities. When an attack is made upon freedom of the press, the newspapers of the nation rise up and revolt. When an attack is made upon freedom of religion, the pulpit does likewise, and when free speech is attacked, every red blooded American is ready to fight."

"Just as the American constitution is the foundation of our lives, industry, in one way or another, is the foundation of their promotion."

The Telegraph-Forum pointed out in detail the vast sums that have to be invested in each basic industry to employ a single man—$9,000 for each automobile worker, $26,000 for each railroad employee, $11,500 for each steel worker, and $7,000 for each electric utility employee. It showed how constant political attack upon industry has slowed up normal investment and employment by driving capital into hiding and hoarding.

"It is time that Americans awaken to the true facts and compare them with government waste and foolishness."

WHAT JAPAN EXPECTS OF US

The news from London and Tokio that the British government is prepared to limit traffic to free China over the Burma route, in compliance with Japan's demand, is depressing. The panes have no more right, under international law, to tell the British in Burma what they may or may not sell the Chinese than they have to tell the United States what Americans may sell to Canadians; nor more right than the Chinese have to say what America may ship to Japan. They have no more right to undermine China's war of resistance by forcing Britain to surrender certain sovereign rights in Burma than the Germans had to get at Norway through Denmark at France through Holland and Belgium. The British would concede Japan no such assumed right unless Japan were threatening to bring med pressure to bear.

It is one more illustration of what has become a guiding principle of all Japanese conduct, as well as of totalitarian conduct in Europe, which is that when you want something from a neighbor who lacks the power to defend it, all the traditions, laws and treaties which stand in the way of that something's seizure become, as Japan says, "inapplicable". It is one more illustration of the absurdity of Senator Vandenberg's contention that the United States could cultivate Japan's good will and negotiate a new commercial treaty with her—a treaty as binding on us as though we could be haled to a court with an omnipotent police force for breach of it, but binding on Japan only so long as it suited her convenience.

It will likely be argued that a Japanese effort to challenge British sovereign rights in Burma is one of our business; particularly when the British elect to surrender those rights without a fight to them. This is not true, however. If a racketeer in New York City contrives to extort from a business man cash tribute and a voice in the management of his affairs by threatening to smash his plate glass, the success of such a pickup is a matter of the gravest concern to every other business man in the block, in the city and in every town where such tactics might be imitated. A discreet show of indifference to the success of this Japanese stickup in the Far East would be a distinct contribution to the cynical totalitarian effort to put international relations on a let-the-weak-beware footing.

What the British are said to have conceded may be of trifling value to the Japanese—a limitation on trade with China during the rainy season when the Burma road is all but impassable; but if it satisfies the Japanese it will be because principle is wrecked by it and because gangsterism is made respectable by precedent.

The Japanese have expressed some annoyance with the British for sending women and children to Hongkong and thereby advertising in the United States the fact that a stickup was in progress. They undoubtedly felt that our people could disapprove of it and that our government might give that disapproval an effective and embarrassing expression. The Administration will not do this. Our people credit and the law of the nations distinct service if it does not in this situation take less effective action than Japan expects.

CONSUMER NEEDS PROTECTION NOW

The Christian Science Monitor, in a recent editorial discussing legislative efforts to destroy chain stores, said: "Pertinent to the whole question is the fact that mass distribution, of high chain store selling is a valid example, answers a vital need in a mass-production age. It has succeeded because they have offered quality at lowered costs. A Twentieth Century survey shows that the chains' great service has been in lowering prices and thus increasing consumers' buying power."

"As for the independent grocers, it has been shown that there are thousands more than in 1929, and they are in the aggregate doing almost more than three times as much business as the chains. Any sound effort to protect the independents must take account of any of the chains' benefits and seek to retain them."

There is only one way the so-called "chain store problem" can be met without doing severe damage to the interests of consumer and producer. That is for the independent store to get down to work and offer the customer as much as the chains offer—and, if possible, still more. That is certainly not an impossible solution. All over America, in little towns and big cities, progressive independents are doing it. They are operating next door to chains—and they are holding their old customers and getting new ones. They are paying equally high wages, and they are selling for equally low prices.

With taxes going up, and the whole price structure tending to rise under the influence of the rearmament program, this is certainly no time to impose new, artificial and unnecessary burdens on the consumer. It is, instead, a time when all kinds of retailers should be encouraged to operate with maximum efficiency so that the consumer will be protected against unwarranted advances in the cost of living.

ASK The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association, the Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each question in the column of this paper those questions considered most interesting and timely.

Question. Will the distance from the ground to the limb of a tree lengthen as a tree grows or will it remain the same?

ANSWER. It remains the same. For example, there is a very interesting tree passed by many thousands of tourists on Route 20 near Waterloo. It is the famous Scythia Tree. A man left for the Civil War and said he would leave a scythe hanging in the tree until he returned. He never returned, but the scythe is still hanging in the tree and at the same distance from the ground as he left it.

If you drive a nail into a tree at a given distance or height above the ground, it will be there ten years from now or later. But don't drive any nails into trees!

A tree grows in three ways or directions: at the terminal shoot that is the tip of the tree, it grows in height; it grows in diameter; and the roots grow into the ground—Prof. Nelson Brown, forester.

Question. Does a glass bottle which has been boiled a few times become more like pyrex in resistance to extreme changes from cold to hot?

ANSWER. The opposite is true. Heating of common glass and cooling it several times results in making it, if anything, slightly more brittle so that it will not withstand change in temperature. You cannot change common glass into pyrex glass unless you change the composition of it.—Dr. Albert L. Elder, chemist.

Question. How can you explain the use of peach twigs to locate the proper place to dig a well in order to be sure of finding water?

ANSWER. Peach twigs, hazel twigs, elder twigs and even barbed wire have been used in attempts to find water, minerals and other materials in the earth's surface. The U. S. Geological Survey published a paper years ago that examined the whole question of the use of such divining instruments from very early times.

The Survey found that such devices are of no value in determining where water or minerals will be found. Anyone of those twigs or the wire will work equally well so far as any scientist knows at the present time.—Dr. Sidman Poole, geographer.

Question. Are the Negroes in this country like their ancestors, the African negroes, or have they become a new and different race?

ANSWER. Many of us feel that the ancestors of the white man were the same 25,000 to 50,000 years ago when they arose as man, as we are now. We believe there has been very little, if any, change. The same opinion applies to the Negroes of Africa who were the ancestral stock of our Negroes here.

However, our present Negroes are for the most part descended from stock which has been in this country a little over 300 years. They have been commingling with the white people, the Indians and others although most of the association has been with the former.

As a result of this intermingling we have produced a new race of people, the American negro. They are not like their African ancestors nor their white ancestors and will not be down through the ages. They will continue as a distinct type of people.

From hybrids such as the mulatto in whom the white man and Negro are crossed, we expect the ancestral types to appear again. In other words, we expect mulatto families to produce some white and some Negro children. Ordinarily, they do not, however, for the mulatto families would have to average approximately 64 children in order to have a fair chance of including one black or one white child.

The few children produced in each mulatto family as a rule will be racially right in the middle between the Negro and the white. This will go on generation after generation so that we have continuance of a mixed race which we may call the American Negro.—Dr. Ernest Reed, geneticist.

Question. Why does ice often form not on the top of the water but below?

ANSWER. This question seems to refer to what is called ground ice or anchor ice, a fairly common phenomenon in such regions as the St. Lawrence where upon a very sharp drop in temperature during winter months, accompanied by very quiet air, the temperature of the bottom of the river frequently falls below that of the moving water.

As a result of this low temperature at the bottom of the river, ice

1940 Evolution of Printing

No. 8
Juan Pablos was in the employ of Juan Cromberger, the leading Seville printer, and it was stipulated in a contract that all books printed by Pablos in Mexico must bear the imprint that they were printed "In the House of Juan Cromberger".

Out of the printing office that was Juan Cromberger's in Mexico City came mostly devotional books or the instruction of the natives in the Christian religion. This was to be expected for Cromberger's enterprise had the enthusiastic support of Zumarraga, the Spanish archbishop in Mexico, who wanted to have books in the native language for the use of priests and missionaries.

Cromberger died in 1540, however, and the Mexico printing business was taken over by Pablos and continued under his name. Pablos brought out some notable books and is entitled to rank among the great pioneers in the development of civilization in the Americas. He died in 1561. Spain herself had played a significant part in the art of printing. It may well be noted that the Spanish had been using the press in Mexico and South America for a full century before printing was introduced into English-speaking North America.

In 1638 the first printing press arrived in Massachusetts. Its owner was the Rev. Jose Glover of Sutton, England, a clergyman of considerable means who had been suspended from his pastorate for non-conformity with the principles of his church. Glover had come to Boston in 1634, liked the new country, and became interested in the establishment of a college in Massachusetts (later named Harvard). Returning to England, he raised funds for the project, bought a printing press, contracted with Stephen Daye and his two sons to handle the printing, and sailed back to America with his family in July or August, 1638. Unfortunately, he died during the voyage, but the Dayes carried on.

(Next week we will tell of the Stephen Daye Press.)

Marine Corps Enlistment Office Opens in Elmira

The United States Marine Corps now has a recruiting office in the Elmira Post Office according to Sgt. James H. Harrington, in charge there. Sgt. John Porter is assisting. There are openings for 9,000 young men between the ages

The Rambler

From time to time I have been asked why Addison does not have more policemen. I reply there are four and the chief and am then asked where the others are for usually only two are available. It would seem to me that appointments should not be accepted unless the appointee intends to act and should not be given unless the village board members know the receiver of the honor will act. I have no axe to grind and don't care who is in, but when public events such as this village had recently occur, here is need for active policemen.

Most of the enthusiasm shown at the American Legion convention here last week was exhibited by the young people, for as most of the older fellows said, "My feet won't let me". And many of the older men were grateful for the short parade.

I sincerely congratulate Elmer Jovee for his part in bringing this convention to Addison and for the successful completion of a year as County Commander of the American Legion. In spite of many odds, Elmer has gone far in the fields in which he chose to devote his talents.

Wilbur Shaw won more than a race Memorial Day when he won the Indianapolis classic for he received $31,375 in cash, an electric refrigerator, a motor car, a flag, a statue, a silver loving cup, an Indianapolis restaurant meal ticket or one year and some other minor prizes. This is a far cry from the Barney Oldfield, Ralph DePalma and Henry Ford racing days.

It is the common fate of the indolent to see their rights become a prey to the active. The condition upon which God hath given liberty to man is eternal vigilance; which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilt—John Philpot Curran, speech upon the Right of Election, July 10, 1790.

One of the Northern Pennsylvania towns is putting a ban on unnecessary horn blowing late at night with the result that fines of $35 were collected from two such nuisances. I think that is a swell idea. It seems so foolish to hear horns blow unnecessarily at a late hour at night, or in a traffic jam when some perspiring motorist is held up for causes not attributable to those in the rear.

The absent-minded professor was reminded here recently by an official-looking letter being carefully addressed, but the sender forgot to put the stamp on it.

The major question agitating people of the community right now seems to be: "When will the new bridge be started?" I've been asked this by several people who feel I should know. But I don't. I'm just as anxious to see the work started as anyone.

The congratulations of the Rambler go to Mrs. Wesley Wright who observed her 80th birthday Sunday. I greet her as former neighbor, friend and contributor to this column during the years it has been part of this paper. I can never believe that years count for a person's age when looking at her and knowing of the activities in which she takes part. She is much more youthful than many persons much younger.

The sudden death of Attorney "Jim" Heffernan in Massachusetts last week revived memories of the days when Addison was to be reckoned with in baseball. He came here from college, pitched his way into the hearts of the people of the town. He exemplified the good sportsman and clean living code. Many of those old timers have faded into oblivion and poverty. He went to a position of affluence in his community. However, in his death, another link with the glorious baseball past of Addison is broken.

That's all.

—The Rambler.

Summertime is Salad Time

—and a healthful time it is too, for these delicious, easy-to-prepare dishes are chockfull of health-giving properties. But a word of warning: Whatever your salad, the final test of the dish's excellence comes in the salad dressing. Don't always serve just plain mayonnaise—vary the dressing. Try whipping cream with the tasty colorful fruit salad—French or Russian dressing with green leafy salads.

If you have a favorite recipe—please send it along.
Contributions to this department will be welcomed.Try Watermelon
Mallobet

Defy the heat of summer days—serve watermelon mallobet. This cool, refreshing pink tinted mallobet has a marshmallow base and it assures you a perfect, smooth frozen dessert. It's a dessert that will combat the effects of sultry "dog-days".

Try this new trick in watermelon desserts. If you enjoy watermelon, and who doesn't, you'll welcome this new way of serving this "All-American" favorite.

Watermelon Mallobet24 marshmallows
1 cup watermelon juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup watermelon, cut fine

Heat marshmallows and 1/2 cup of watermelon juice (made by pressing the pulp through a sieve) in a deep saucepan over low heat, folding over and over until marshmallows are smooth and fluffy. Cool. Then add the lemon juice. Beat egg whites until they hold a peak. Add the sugar slowly and continue beating until a stiff meringue is formed. Combine the marshmallow mixture with the meringue and fold carefully until blended. Pour mixture into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze at coldest degree possible. Stir twice during the freezing period. The second time add the finely cut watermelon.

When your family is in the mood for cantaloupe mallobet use 1 cup of cantaloupe juice and 1 cup of cantaloupe (cut fine) in place of watermelon juice and the watermelon.

These delicately colored mallobets look inviting when piled high in frost-bitten sherbet glasses and topped with a melon ball or a sprig of fresh mint.

MAKE THE MOST OF SEASON'S BERRIES

The berry season is here, with all the delicious concoctions that go with it. These blueberry scones would be a gay touch to a wedding shower, for example, to give the touch of blue in "something borrowed—". They're grand with iced tea and perfect with those crisp summer salads.

Blueberry Scones
2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
4 tsp. shortening
1/2 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening. Add well-drained berries. Combine egg and milk, and add to flour mixture, stirring lightly. Spread in greased, round 9-inch layer pan, mark pie-shaped pieces with sharp knife, and sprinkle with sugar (if desired). Bake in moderate hot oven (425 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. While warm spread with mixture of 1 tsp. butter, 2 tbs. cream and 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar, if desired. Yield: 10 to 12 scones.

MOLASSES MAKES UNUSUAL TASTY DRESSING

It's open season for salads and cold cuts. And what more refreshing news can come to the housewife.

For luncheon and dinner, these are simple dishes to prepare, and economical and nourishing to both. It's the sauce, however, that can make or break these meals as far as flavor is concerned, no matter how carefully you select the ingredients for the salad and the meat cuts.

Here are two recipes—one for cold cuts and the other for cold-slaw—that should be in every smart hostess' little black book. Try them next Sunday night for dinner—when you want something special to spring on the family. They'll love them.

Molasses Sauce for Cold Cuts
1 1/2 tbs. New Orleans molasses
1 tsp. water
1 tsp. prepared mustard4 tbs. vinegar
Thoroughly mix ingredients together and serve as sauce for cold cuts. Especially delicious with ham and pork.Molasses Russian Dressing2 tbs. chili sauce
2 tbs. pimiento, chopped
2 tbs. green pepper, chopped
1/4 tsp. paprika
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 tsp. vinegar
1 1/2 tbs. New Orleans molasses
Combine chili sauce, pimiento, green pepper, paprika and mayonnaise. Add vinegar and molasses. Blend well. Delicious when served with cold slaw and hearts of lettuce salads.TRY STUFFING DEVILED
EGGS WITH LIVER SAUSAGE

Liver sausage is a highly versatile meat but its talent for combining perfectly with other sauces and flavorings is too often overlooked. Try these delightfully different appetizers.

Liverwurst Deviled Eggs3 hard cooked eggs
1/2 inch slice liver sausage
1/4 tsp. salt
Cayenne pepper
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. lemon juice
Mayonnaise

Cut eggs in two crosswise. Remove yolks and mash with sausage; add remaining ingredients. Mix to a smooth paste. Fill egg whites. Garnish with small pieces of pimiento.

CHILDREN LOVE COOKIES ANY TIME OF YEAR

Summer time is no time to let the cookie jar go empty. Children love these tidbits in July just as much as when the snow flies and the Christmas tree is in the living room.

In fact, what with picnics, camping and trips to the beach, cookies might be even more important in the summer. Certainly, they're just the thing to eat with fruit juices and milk between meals and perfect for the light desserts mothers prefer the children to eat during the warm weather.

So let's not overlook the many possibilities of cookies; check over the recipes you have on hand. Here's a recipe you'll do well to file away to try again and again.

Cinnamon Snaps
1 cup sugar
1 cu. shortening
1 cup New Orleans molasses
2 tsp. soda
2 tbs. warm water
5 to 6 cups flour
1 tbs. cinnamon
1 tbs. ginger
1/2 tsp. salt

Cream sugar with shortening. Add molasses; then add soda dissolved in warm water. Sift 2 cups flour with remaining dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Add enough more flour to make a stiff dough. Roll out very thin on slightly floured board. Cut in desired shapes and bake 8 to 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

Fake Magazine
Salesman Offers
Jobs to Youths

Parents were requested to be on the lookout for a fake magazine salesman promising National Youth Administration job with every subscription.

Using the name "G. A. Wilson" and "George Alexander" this petty racketeer promises parents that he will obtain NYA jobs for their children if they make a down payment on subscriptions to certain publications. He is particularly active in larger industrial centers.

The salesman was indicted for violation of the impersonation statute by a Federal Grand Jury and a fugitive warrant for his arrest has been issued. Numbered among his victims have been parents of school children for whom he has promised to obtain employment on the NYA student work program.

The magazine salesman's appearance is described as follows: Fifty to sixty years of age; white; American; 5'6" in height; 125 pounds in weight; reddish sunburned complexion, very shabby—wore shoes with holes in toes; wore ragged coat; wore rim glasses; hair long combed straight back brown mixed with gray.

If any person has any knowledge regarding the activities or whereabouts of the so-called "Mr. Wilson" they are requested to inform the local police, the nearest field office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the NYA State Office, at once.

Ayrshire Cow With
53-Ton Milk Record
At Anglica Field Day

Traveling in her deluxe barn-trailer, Peshurst Emerald, one of the most famous Ayrshire cows of all times, is now enroute from her home in Vermont to the Western New York Dairy Field Day that will be held at the fairgrounds in Anglica on July 27. This famous fourteen-year-old bovine aristocrat is the mother of a great family, that includes nine daughters and four sons. She has made more than 53 tons of 4.32% milk to date and prior to leaving her Vermont home was producing over 50 pounds of milk daily. In fact, so outstanding have been her achievements that she was chosen by a committee of experts as the most suitable animal to demonstrate the ideal dairy cow for New York farmers.

Peshurst Emerald is owned by Fillmore Farms at Bennington, Vt., and is one of 151 cows that made a World's Record Test average of 10,338 pounds of 4.04 milk, 417 pounds fat in 1938—a record that has never been duplicated by a registered herd of this size. Needless to say, "Emerald" and her descendants are counted among the most highly valued number of the Fillmore herd which presently includes more than 300 registered Ayrshires.

Dairymen, 4-H Club members, vocational agriculture students and others interested in fine cattle are cordially invited to see this feature exhibit. The experienced dairy expert in charge will be pleased to answer questions and discuss profitable dairying with anyone. It is doubtful if a more famous dairy cow was ever shown in Western New York, and quite possible that it will be many years before another one as great will be on display.

National Leader to Address Dairy Field Day
At Anglica July 27

Lloyd C. Burlingham, secretary of the National Dairy Association and the manager of the National Dairy Show, is announced as the keynote speaker of the Western New York Dairy Field Day to be held on the Anglica Fair Grounds, July 27.

Former Associate Editor of Hoad's Dairyman, a national dairy publication, for five years the Secretary of the National Ayrshire Breeders' Association, and since 1935 the manager of the National Dairy Show, Mr. Burlingham is intimately acquainted with the dairy industry in all parts of the United States. His address is scheduled for two o'clock in the afternoon.

Exhibits that feature the breeding of superior dairy cattle, the control of disease, the rearing of calves, soil conservation, and numerous other subjects pertaining to the dairy industry are featured.

The major purpose of the day's meeting is to present to the farmers of western New York a choice group of young herd sires. Seventy bulls of all the dairy breeds comprise the offering.

4-H Members to Attend
Dairy Field Day

Western New York counties are participating in a dairy field day and bull sale to be held at Anglica on Saturday, July 27. A special part of the program has been arranged for 4-H Club members and future farmers from various counties. This will include judging of several rings of cows of the various major breeds and judging classes of bulls with the use of an extended pedigree. It is felt that the work done on the class of bulls should be extremely helpful to the boys since it will include not only judging for type, but selecting the proper herd sire on the basis of production performance of its ancestors.

Cash prizes will be awarded to those boys doing the best work. It is expected that many Steuben 4-H Club members will attend the sale in the company of their parents, while many others may get to go as a club group. The high scoring boys at the Steuben County dairy field day, held July 25, will be taken to the sale for further judging work by the club agent, Leon W. Taylor.

Warren "Rip" Collins, former football star and Yankee pitcher, is a candidate for sheriff in Travis County, Texas. He is a member of the Texas Rangers.

Chest Clinic August 1
In Addison High School

A chest clinic is to be held in Addison on August 1, 1940 at the high school from 1 to 4 P. M.

These clinics are conducted by the regular medical staff of the Mt. Morris Tuberculosis Hospital and are arranged by the local health officer, district state health officer and county and city nurses.

Patients must be referred to the clinics by their regular physician or health officer. Complete X-ray and physical examinations are made and results reported to the family physician or to the health officer if patient is referred to clinic by him.

4-H Field Day For
Potato Members

Steuben, Allegany, Livingston, Schuyler, Chemung and Yates Counties are planning, jointly, a regional field day for 4-H Club members interested in potato and garden work. This field day will be held at the farm of C. P. Stanton, Cohocton on August 2 with short tours to nearby points of interest as well.

The first spot of interest which those attending are planning to visit is a potato demonstration plot at Lawrence Baur's, Avoca. Lawrence, one of the older club members of Steuben County, has a very interesting demonstration, showing potato varieties and different methods of planting.

A high light on the program will be a visit to the potato rotation experiments, Cohocton, where Dr. Smith of the College of Agriculture, who has charge of the various potato rotation plots in the county, will personally explain to the boys and girls, the many experiments.

The rest of the day will be spent at the Stanton farm and will include instruction and competition in judging, grading and variety identification of potatoes and vegetables as well as identification of weeds and seeds and potato and garden insects and diseases and their control.

Dr. Arthur J. Pratt, 4-H crops specialist, Dr. M. F. Barrus, plant pathologist, and Dr. R. W. Leiby, entomologist, all of the College of Agriculture, will be present to conduct various phases of the work. It is expected that several hundred club members from Western New York will be present during the day.

Steuben County
4-H Field Day

4-H Club boys and girls having dairy projects have long been waiting for the first annual Steuben County 4-H Dairy Field Day to be held Thursday, July 25 at 10 A. M., D.S.T. The group will gather at the farm of Edward Heinaman, Bath, at that time for the purpose of judging several rings of Holstein cattle.

The work of judging will be presented at a judging demonstration given by Prof. H. A. Willman, livestock specialist from the College of Agriculture who will be present for the full day.

The group will journey to the second spot which will be Francis Foster's farm of Wheeler for lunch and sports, after which several rings of Ayrshire cattle will be judged. At this stop, considerable time will also be spent on methods of feeding and fitting dairy cattle for exhibit purposes.

Members are requested to bring their questions and problems on this subject to the meeting for discussion.

The three boys or girls doing the best work in judging will receive a free trip to the New York State Fair as the official Steuben County 4-H dairy team. The Bath Rotary Club is sponsoring the trip. At State Fair, the team will compete against similar teams from other counties with the winning team receiving a free trip to the National Dairy Show.

It is felt that before any boy or girl can manage a dairy herd, he or she must know how to pick out good cows and must know the principles involved in their selection—hence, stress is being placed on judging at this dairy field day.

Both of the herds to be visited are among the outstanding herds of their breed in the county. All dairy boys and girls are urged to be present. Parents and leaders are cordially invited, as well.

Steuben Taxpayers' Group
To Survey County Costs

The Steuben County Taxpayers Association is to sponsor an audit and survey of the costs of taxation and government in the county it has been announced by the officers. Plans for the audit and survey were announced at a meeting held in Bath Friday night. W. R. Campbell president was in charge of the meeting. Carleton H. Miller was clerk. Keaton Arnett, representative of the Citizens' Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., was present and answered several questions as to the survey. Funds for the survey will be solicited on a voluntary basis with William Hollands

Morseman Lad
Dies From Injuries

Franklyn Morseman, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morseman, South Addison, died Sunday, July 21 in the Corning Hospital as the result of injuries sustained Saturday night when struck by a motor car near his home.

The young lad had been riding with Emerson McAllister of Addison. He was with Gerald Chase, 16. The two alighted from the McAllister car and started across the highway. A car driven by Daniel Webster, 27, of Solon, Ohio bore down on the pair. Chase grabbed Morseman to pull him from danger but too late. Morseman was knocked ten feet. Webster remained with the youth until help arrived and stayed in the vicinity until Sunday morning at the request of police. He was not detained and was permitted to continue his journey to New York.

Morseman was taken to the Corning Hospital. It was found he had internal injuries, a fractured skull, fracture of both jaws, fractured right leg, severed nose, lacerations, shock and hemorrhages.

Franklyn was born in Brooklyn, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morseman. He was born September 22, 1929. The family came to Addison two years ago and have since lived in their present home.

In addition to his parents he leaves four brothers, Walter, Earl, Jr., Raymond and Kenneth, two sisters, Dorothy and Lois, his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Mandeville and paternal grandfather, Edward Morseman of Lindley and several aunts and uncles.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the home in Tuscarora and interment was in Borden Cemetery.

Coroner James Sanford has indicated there will be an inquest in the death of Franklin Morseman, 11, as soon as Daniel Webster, driver of the car, can be contacted and returned to Addison.

SPORTS GOSSIP

The Nine Old Men of Addison are being challenged by the Old Tymers for a game to be played on the Red Cross in Addison some Saturday afternoon in August. The Nine Old Men are youths compared to the Old Tymers, who will average over 50 years of age. There is growing interest in this game here, especially with Johnnie Flynn managing the Nine Old Men and John O'Keefe managing the Old Tymers. This should be an attraction to bring a large crowd into Addison some Saturday afternoon.

With the coming of the Duke of Windsor, a story is brought to light that he is quite a golfer, having two holes-in-one to his credit.

In addition to James A. Farley, postmaster general, W. A. Julian, United States treasurer is one of the financiers behind the purchase of the New York Yankees from the Ruppert estate. Farley is expected to announce his resignation from the political appointment this week.

The Cincinnati Reds were in first place last year on July 4th; they won the pennant. This year the Brooklyn Dodgers roosted at the top of the National League ladder over the Independence holiday. Some soothsayer said, "The team in first place July 4th will win the pennant." Some years it's true. But don't start parking in line on a camp stool outside the Brooklyn bleachers gates yet. Some years the old saw misses. For 11 straight years of National League history, 1900 to 1910, it worked. The 1911 season was the only lapse in the first fourteen years of the 20th Century. Over the stretch of 40 years, starting with the 1900 race, it's clicked 25 times, a batting average of .625. Just lately, however, the percentage is slim. Before 1939, the tradition held good only twice in a stretch of ten years, the St. Louis Cardinals of 1931 and the New York Giants of 1933. So if your favorite team wasn't in first place on July 4, don't give up. The National League pennant race is not anywhere near over yet.

Farm Bureau Offers Expert Culling Service

A sure way to increase poultry profits is to rid the flock in the early summer of the shy and non-laying birds.

Many poultry keepers are familiar with this practice, and others who know the fine points of culling are crowded for time and prefer to hire the work done.

To meet this need the Farm Bureau provides the services of an expert culler who will be available during the next few weeks. The cost is two cents a bird and the minimum charge is two dollars.

Orders, to be placed immediately with the Farm Bureau, will state the number of birds and the location of the farm.

No Restrictions on U. S. Citizens Going to Canada

Niagara Falls, (Special)—There has been much discussion and considerable misunderstanding regarding the passage of U. S. citizens over the border between this country and Canada. The actual facts are clearly set forth in a statement authorized by Arthur J. Karnuth, district director of U. S. Immigration, stationed in this area.

"There has been no change in the U. S. immigration law affecting the entrance of U. S. citizens back into the United States," he said. "Nor has there been any change regarding U. S. citizens entering Canada. They can come and go as freely as in the past. No passports are required."

"The only cases in which we require verification from an American citizen is when they are foreign born or very apparently of foreign extraction. We do not pay any attention to the person who was born in the United States, and he is free to come and go at will."

"All this talk about it being hard to cross to or return from Canada over the Whirlpool Rapids Bridge or any other border crossing is amusing to us who see the workings of the U. S. Immigration men every day. Furthermore, the actual figures are more definite proof of existing conditions. There is a greater number of people going from the United States to Canada this year than in 1939. Our tolls to Canada have noticeably increased, which proves that the border is as open and free to citizens of the United States as it has been for the last 150 years."

"The restrictions imposed on money are now in effect on the Canadian side, but these apply only to persons who are citizens of Canada. In no way is the United States citizen affected by any regulations which may have been put into effect by the United States or Canadian authorities."

"Mechanics" Dairy Tour Theme—Western DHIA Host on August 1

A. M. GOODMAN

Cornell Specialist Who Will Lecture at Mechanics Tour for Farm Bureau

Herd Improvement Association is to play the host to Steuben dairymen on Thursday, August 1.

In preparation for this annual event, which in its short lifetime has established an attendance record of more than three hundred, three farms which illustrate phases of the central theme, were selected months ago.

Study Stable Ventilation

A Cornell type of stable ventilation is now being installed on the Floyd Loper farm on the Big Creek road east of Hornell, where the four farms at ten o'clock standard time.

Mr. Loper will erect the temporary silo which he has used for several years, and at this farm there will be a display of rubber-tired wagons, manure spreaders and similar equipment. Early this spring, nitrate of soda was sown on the calf pasture, and Seneca, a new variety of soybeans, has been planted.

But there are other substantial reasons for visiting the Loper farm, and one of these is the splendid Ayrshire herd that has been developed there, which in the past five years has had an average of 9600 pounds of milk and 400 pounds of butterfat.

The tables at Maple City Park, Hornell, have been reserved for the party, where a picnic dinner will be served, for which milk and ice cream will be furnished.

See Farm Shop

The first stop of the afternoon is with Carl Wellington on Oak Hill cut of Arkport, there to see a well-equipped farm shop, a Cornell plan milk house, safety bull pen, a rubber tire mounted on the binder bull wheel and one of the best pastures in Steuben county.

A good herd of cows and a barn that was made over for dairy use, where sheep had been kept before, are other points of interest.

The farm of Leon Dennis, Canisteo, was selected primarily because of its water supply system, but other subjects, electric refrigeration, lightning rods, a safety bull pen, are listed for discussion.

Display Novel Mower

A new type of mowing machine that reduces by a third the time to dry hay is to be shown here.

The senior herd sire has recently been proven, and his daughters and their dams will be on view, and members of the party who estimate the transmitting for this bull will qualify for valuable prizes.

Tour members will be interested to inspect this herd, which in the past year produced milk at the lowest feed cost in the history of DHIA testing in Steuben county.

Professor A. M. Goodman, farm engineer who designed the Cornell type of dairy stable ventilation, is the keynote speaker.

Appearing with him are Cornell agronomist Ernest Van Alstine, and Raymond Albrectson of animal husbandry, to discuss feed crop production and the breeding of superior dairy cattle.

Request Farmers to Use Flushing Bars To Protect Wildlife

Albany, July—Farmers and landowners engaged in mowing and harvesting operations were urged today by Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne to equip their machines with flushing bats in order to prevent any unnecessary slaughter of wildlife.

"The next two months," declared Commissioner Osborne, "will be an important period especially for pheasants, quail and rabbits. During this period several ground-nesting species will be hatching their young. In years past our appeals for protecting wildlife have met with the wholehearted co-operation of landowners, farmers and other interested groups. The use of flushing bars and other similar devices has afforded added protection to many species of wildlife and has assured them a better chance of survival. Since the introduction of the flushing bar, each year has witnessed a noticeable decline in the mortality rate among pheasants, quail and rabbits."

Commissioner Osborne also urged that all dogs be tied up or kept on leash to prevent their roaming the fields for the next seven or eight weeks.

Prints and other information concerning the various types of flushing bars most widely used at the present time will be furnished upon request to the Conservation Department in Albany. This information officials said, is available to all persons interested in preserving and protecting New York's wildlife resources.

The Poorest Place to Tell a Lie!

IT has been said by some of our radical reformers that advertising misleads the public.

Such accusations fall under their own weight.

The poorest place in the world to attempt a lie is in the advertising columns of American newspapers and magazines, and in American radio programs.

In the first place, our publishers and broadcasting companies wouldn't carry dishonest advertising. They outlawed it long ago.

In the second place, such efforts to mislead would be conducted in full view of the public and of the officials empowered to apply fraud laws.

In the third place, dishonest advertising is as inefficient as dirty football. It does not pay.

Informed people have lost interest in the advertising-baiting books and speeches of the radical self-appointed reformers since one after another of them has figured prominently before the House Special Committee on un-American Activities.
